

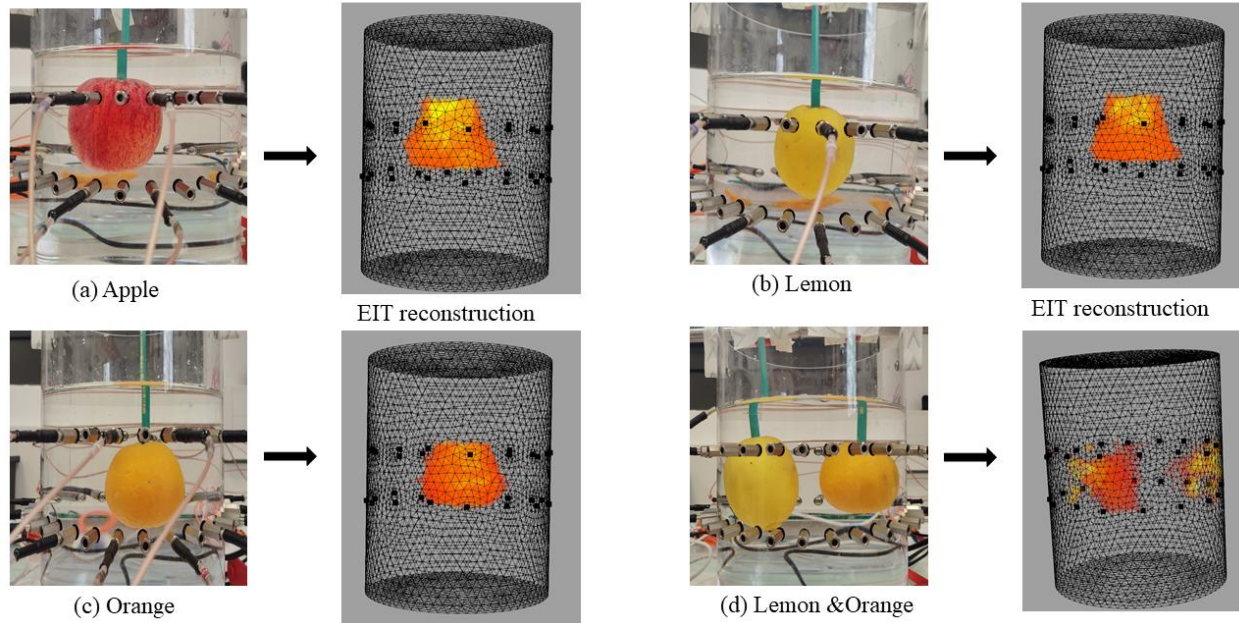

Figure1. EIT results for fruit objects inside a cylindrical imaging tank. The experimental setups (left) show different fruit positions and configurations, while the corresponding reconstructed images (right) display the conductivity distribution.